1. The following information is for relay to the Contracting Officer, [redacted] and for record in your contract file.

2. Two contract-affiliated charges for consulting time on the part of [redacted] [redacted] have been authorized by [redacted] and will appear on their financial statement during the next quarter. Both consultations occurred during the contractor's in-house work sessions on Contract [redacted] and are directly related to the study being performed under that contract.

3. The first amount of time involved two days of in-house work at the request of both [redacted] and Mr. Lundahl. The result was a short paper advising Mr. Lundahl of some relationships between specific targets and the resolutions needed to identify them -- as derived from an earlier [redacted] study for NPIC on ground resolution and P.I. performance.

4. The second item of time again involved both [redacted] and [redacted] for approximately three hours in-house at the request of [redacted]. The time was spent discussing the problem of screen color and color of illumination for rear-projection viewers. [redacted] was asked to have a member of his staff perform a library research on experimental work in this area and to report any pertinent findings. Approximately two weeks later [redacted] returned a letter with two research references. Minor staff time was required for this task (perhaps one day). [redacted] only noteworthy contribution was to reinforce the view that little or no applicable research exists in this problem area.
